REMINISCENSES OF OUR PIONEER DAYS

Gleanings From the Records Left By Men Who Laid the Foundation of Our County.

On the 11th of April, 1873 the people of Redwood City were thrown into a fever of excitement by the announcement that Dr. S. S. Merrill, the County Treasurer had been using the public funds in the transaction of his private business and that as a consequence he was short in his accounts to the very considerable extent of about $39,000. Among those in this city most intimately connected with the affairs of Dr. Merrill there had been a suspicion for a few days before the announcement was made public that there was someting wrong from the fact that he had been making strenuous efforts to raise money, regardless of the secrifices necessary. This finally came to the knowledge of his bondsmen, and upon their demand for exact information as to the condition of his affairs Dr. Mer rill finally admitted to them that all was not right. At the same time the Board of Supervisors took official cognizance of the rumors and named a committee, consisting of Supervisors Gordon, Byrnes and Brooks to investigate the office. While Dr. Merrill readily admitted that his funds were short, he maintained that he had been actuated by no criminal intent and freely offered to turn over to his bondsmen his entire property which he contended would be more than sufficient to meet any shortage. The bondsmen of the Treasurer at this time were John T. Doyle, C. A. Murray, F D Atherton, George C. Boardman, J. H Reddington, George H. Howard, W. J. Adams, S. M. Mezes and G. H Kellogg, who were responsible on their bond for the total sum of $25,000. After some little investigation the bondsmen accepted the proposal of Dr. Merrill and proposed to the board of Supervisors that they would make good the shortage, provided that Dr. Merrill should tender his resignation and that following the settlement they should be relieved from further responsibility under the bond, and that the bondsmen of the previous term should if necessary be holden for a portion of the deficiency. Several meetings of the Supervisors were held before the matter was finally arranged in all of its details, but an agreement was finally reach ed on the 10th of May, when the res ignation of Dr. Merrill was accepted and the bondsmen were ready with their money. George D. Kellogg was elected as Treasurer to fill the vacancy and upon assuming the office he gave the retiring Treasurer a receipt for the full amount of money shown by the books of the Auditor to be required in the treasury the bondsmen depositing sufficient funds to cover deficiency, which was shown to be slightly over $37,000, and thus as far as official action was concerned the matter was ended. The failure of Dr. Merrill to make good his numerous business enterprises was a serious set back to the inter ests of this community, one of the first of the losses to come in evidence being the loss to the town of the boot and shoe factory, which it was now evidenced had been almost entirely financed by him. During the week following the announcement of the shortage of the county funds the factory was closed and within a short time the machinery was dismantled and shipped to San Francisco, it being impossible to secure funds to continue the business which had given regular employment to a large number of men who had made their homes here. Dr. Merrill had been a resident of Redwood City since the latter part of 1861, and up to this time had been regarded as one of its most progressive and enterprising citizens and had been personally pop ular throughout the county, as was evidenced by the fact that he was then serving his third term as County Treasurer and had been a member of the Board of Town Trustees continuously from the time of the incorporation of the town. He had been a lead er in every public enterprise and had taken especial interest in the public schools, contributing a considerable sum to the erection and maintenance of the local school build ing. He had also taken an active interest in the affairs of the Congregational Church aiding very largely in the funds for the building of the church and the maintenance of its pastor, the amount donated for this latter purpose being estimated at the time as not less than $1000. In fact scarcely a single public enterprise has been started since his residence here to which he was not a leading contributor of both money and time. A man then nearly 50 years of age, he seems to have been singularly unfortunate in his business career. He began his career in life by studying medicine in Massachusetts, where he practiced a short time after graduation, and in 1853 came to this coast, settling in San Francisco, where he practiced his profession and engaged in the drug business. This business venture proved a failure after a few years, and in the early portion of 1861 he was forced into bankruptcy. It was after settling this affair that he came to Redwood City, where he be gan the practice of his profession and shortly afterwards managed to borrow sufficient money to equip a small drug store. For a time this business prosperred and he paid back a considerable of the sum from which he had been relieved by the insolvency proceedings in San Francisco. With a short season of prosperity, his inborn spirit of public enterprise took possession of him and he branched out in efforts to build up the town where he had made his home and experienced his first seas on of business prosperity. And with this branching out his good fortune seemed to desert him as with scarce ly an exception every investment made proved disasterous. One of the first unfortunate investments made was when he undertook to aid in the building of improvements of the town, investing a considerable sum of borrowed money. The most notable of these was the rebuilding of the American House in 1868, in which he finally invested over $20,000. The first tenant secured for the hotel agreed to pay a rental of $200 per month, but after keeping the place open for five months, during which time he paid none of the rent, failed and left the place on the hands of Dr. Merrill, who finally took a partner and undertook to conduct the place, he furnishing the building and furniture and the partner agreeing that he was to be paid as his share of the proceeds $150 per month. Again payments proved to be nothing more than promises, as in nearly two years he managed to collect but one months rent. The shoe factory was another of the larger drains upon his resources. At the time Mason started this enterprise, Dr. Merrill contributed $500 as a bonus, and after the factory was started was induced to advance still more until the amount reached $1500. When Mason failed to make the business go, Dr. Merrill was induced by Mr. Frisbie, who had been foreman of the place, to join in partnership with him and purchase the factory with the representation that $5,000 would be ample to finance the business. This he soon found to be another unfortunate investment, and within a few months he had been compelled to add to his original investment until it reached $16,000 and then with no prospect of returns in sight. Thus it will be seen that Dr. Merrill was in reality more the victim of unfortunate circumstances than of an in tent to wrong the people who had given him their confidence Too strong a desire to advance the interest of the community, coupled with perhaps an unfortunate lack of business foresight had combined to place him in an unenviable position before the community at a time of life when his good name should have been his strongest assett. A man of good habits and upright character, Dr. Merrill appears to have had the sympathy of the community in his misfortunes, and there was general rejoicing that he had been able to arrive at a satisfactory settlement of his affairs.

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER

D. E. O'KEEFE, Editor and Proprietor

Charles W. Davidson, mayor of San Jose, announces himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congressman from the fifth district in opposition to Congressman Hayes. Mr. Davidson has been quite prominent in public life of his home city, having served two terms asCity Justice and been twice elected as Mayor. He is also a prominent member of the Spanish War Veterans, having served in the Philippines as a member of the First California infantry.

Judge Ambrose McSweeney, of South San Francisco, will be the Republican standard bearer for the office of tax collector at the election next November, he having no opposition at the primaries. Mr. McSweeney is a native of San Francisco, a graduate of the public schools of that city and has all the qualifications for the office to which the people will call him to fill. He has made good as justice of the peace of the first township and will also make good as tax collector. Mr McSweeney has made a clean, straight forward campaign that has gained him many friends. That he will have no opposition at the primaries speaks well for his popularity and fitness. Mr. McSweeney is a man of high social standing and will be quite an acquisition to Redwood City.

The Man For the Place.

At the solicitation of a large number of prominent Republicans from various sections of the State, Friend W. Richardson, editor and proprietor of the Berkeley Daily Gazette, has announced himself as a candidate for nomination on the Republican ticket for State Printer. In a strong sense, the announcement of Mr Richardson comes as an instance of the office seeking the man, as he has several times declined to allow the use of his name as a candidate for any office.

Although not a native of California, Mr. Richardson was reared in this State and is closely allied with its interests, and is familiar with all its sections, having for a considerable time resided in the southern section. Practically all of his manhood experience has been identified with the printing business, having been enggaged in almost every sphere of newspaper work. That he has a high standing among the newspaper fraternity is evidenced by the fact that he has been retained as president of the California Press Association for the past eight years, being re-elected at the late session at Lake Tahoe by a unanimous vote. Two years ago he was one of the leaders in the great fight for good government in Alameda County, and it was largely due to his efficient work, both personally and through the columns of his paper that the effort was successful. He is a thoroughly loyal Republican, having been strongly identified with that party from the time he attained his majority.

The printing plant of the Berkeley Daily Gazette is considered a model by those in the business, indicating that he is thoroughly familiar with the requirements of the trade. Besides his familiarity with the business, he is considered a man of more than usual executive ability.

Up to the People of Redwood.

The question of the future prosperity and advancement of Redwood City is now directly up to its business men and property owners. The opportunity to secure that which it is universally admitted is the essential element for that desired prosperity is now definitely offered and its acceptance lies directly with our people.

The efforts of our Board of Trade to secure an opportunity for the location of another manufacturing enterprise of considerable magnitude has been successful. All that remains is for the people to come forward with the necessary inducements such as would be secured in many communities within a few days

The proposal as submitted by the executive committee to the Board of Trade at its meeting this week is direct and simple, and the investigations of the committee clearly indicate that it is a good one. As outlined it is simply this: One of the best known boot and shoe factor is of San Francisco has expressed a willingness to locate at Redwood City. This offer has been made by the managers of this concern after receiving offers from three other towns of the Bay counties. They have been offered by each of these places a free site and the erection of the factory buildings, the cost of which to the community would be about $12,000. The preference is now for Redwood City, and if we offer equal inducements the factory will come to this city.

As the proposal is submitted we are asked to take nothing for granted. The concern offers to make a guarantee of a payroll of at least $65,000 per year, and to demonstrate the certainty of this claim before the property shall pass to their ownership. It is proposed that the factory site shall not become the actual property of the factory until the end of five years, when if they have maintained the payroll at the figure promised the deeds for the property are to be passed. This is certainly a fair proposition and demonstrates the faith of the men who are behind the concern.

And the proposition seems to be a good one. It is reasonable to assume that the amount of the pay roll is a minimum of what is expected. If they guarantee $65,000 per year, it is safe to assume that as a matter of fact it will exceed $75,000.

The only question before the people of Redwood City seems to be, will it pay to spend $12,000 for a pay roll of $65,000 per year, Is the game worth the candle? We say certainly yes.

It is a matter that any man with a little thought and a small pencil can easily figure out for himself. It is safe to assume that out of the total sum of say $70,000 at least from $40,000 to $50,000 will be spent right in the town. Every business man knows what this would mean.

Besides it means an addition of from 100 to 150 inhabitants in the city, among which will be at least 50 families. This would mean no more vacant houses. It means more new dwellings built, it means a larger assessment roll; in short it means prosperity such as only the circulation of $65,000 per year can permanently stimulate.

It is up to the citizens to figure or not they want this $65,000 per ure this matter over; to decide whether year distributed in this city; whether or not they want their houses vacant or occupied; whether or not they want to see prosperity enter our portals, and whether or not they can afford to pay the price asked, namely $12,000.

It would seem to us there can be but one answer, and that would be YES. There should be no delay in a practical solution of the question.

Would Promote Harmony.

If the Republican party would be assured of success in the state campaign it is essential that is should have at head of its ticket not only a man qualified to discharge the duties of Governor, but also one situated as to be able to command the support of all elements of the party. With the close of the primary election on August 16th all minor differences of opinion should be laid aside and all should unite for the success of the candidates who have received the choice of the majority. This is an absolute essential to the continuance of any party organization, and it is universally admitted that party organization is a necessary part of the American system of government.

Of the various candidates before the party seeking the nomination for Governor, Charles F. Curry possesses this important qualification to a high degree. Announcing his candidacy upon his own initiative, he has sought the endorsement of no particular element of his party, but has rather relied upon his personal platform and an individual appeal to the voters of his party, without regard to the views of any particular individual group. This same plan has been pursued throughout his campaign, and thus he has kept himself free from entangling alliances and has avoided partisan rancor. Thus he has placed himself in a position where he may well appeal for a united support in the final contest.

That he is eminently qualified for the high honor which he seeks, no one can well question. Not only is he an able man in every sense of that term, with a broad mind and large executive ability, but he has had the advantage of a wide public experience, an absolute necessity for the proper discharge of the high office of Chief Executive of the State. His long continuance in the important office of Secretary of State without question of his conduct or motives is not only a guarantee of his integrity of character but a certain index of his ability to cope with the many and diversified questions of public policy.

Grand Deputy Masconi conducted the installation. Refreshments were served in the hall. All the natives of the Coastside were present and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable way.

Want More Light.

Menlo Park has once more been plunged into darkness. Just think of it one of the oldest towns in the valley has not enough citizens who have been imbued with the American spirit and pride of country to maintain lights even in its business district.

This lighting question dates back several years, when some of the Menlo Park ladies succeeded in having oil lamps erected, and maintained them by funds obtained through public entertainments. Some of the Menlo Park citizens rewarded the ladies for their heroic work by distroying the lamps. After a short time this oil lighting system was given up. At this point some of the Menlo citizens came to the front, a lighting district was established, a bountiful subscription list secured, and a most elaborte electric system was put into effect. This state of affairs lead several citizens to believe that the town would emerge from the rut into which it had fallen and be given a place upon the map. But woe to such over-wrought beings, for it was but a short time before the majority of the subscribers were flinching under the burden some light tax and were squeezing the paltry fifty cents they had been contributing so hard that the collector gave up his job in dispair. I could publish a volumn of incidents recited to me by the collect or, in fact I heard one merchant arguing the case with him. The said merchant whose business hours are from seven a. m until ten p m argued that the lights were of no benefit to him This gentleman evidently did not feel justified in parting with fifty cents per month to maintain lights for the benefit of his customers who were out after dark. The collector also told me of another business man on the county road who refused to pay because one of the lights had not been removed from a corner and placed directly in front of his place of business. If this had been done said party undoubtedly would have paid fifty cents a month for the first two months at least. Many others put forth excuses just as absurd as the above.

Following the resignation of the light collector a public meeting was called. Of course, you all know it is very easy to secure a good attendance at public meetings in Menlo. On this evening about three citizens put in an appearance at the town hall, and to the surprise of the people the meeting was adjourned to be held at a latter date. At the next meeting about eighteen citizens appeared, and after a lengthy descussion committees were appointed, a collector hired, and everything sat to rights.

The result of this meeting was to place the alarmed citizens at ease and to enable some of Palo Alto's citizens to renew their crap games beneath one of the lights on the County Road after Menlo's law abiding resorts had closed their doors upon them.

These conditions were short lived however, because the committee was unable to obtain additional funds, and once more the glim was dimmed. Menlo Park has fallen into its old state, and appears at night as a series of dimly lighted huts from which issue mysterious noises. Citizens through fear of the dark are compelled to remain in doors and strangers arriving in town after dark must remain at the station until sun up in order to locate the town.

Arouse your selves citizens, consider the conditions under which you are living, note the progress of neighboring towns, and fall to the task of uplifting your own community. Remember that in order to live in this age of progress you are expected to render a certain service to society as a whole, and that you are not living entirely within yourself.

SHOE FACTORY MAY LOCATE IN REDWOOD

Opportunity Offered to Secure Large Manufacturing Plant For Redwood City.

The hope long indulged in by residents of this city that Redwood would become a factory town seems close to realization. The executive committee of the Board of Trade which is back of a movement to bring a well-known shoe factory to this city made an encouraging report to the board Tuesday night which received the hearty endorsement of the main body. It will be necessary to raise in the neighborhood of $10,000 to finance the scheme and in exchange for this bonus it is guranteed that an establishment will be located here that will have a payroll of not less than $65,000 a year. The company promises to make good before accepting the property. It prefers to come to Redwood City. Businessmen, citizens and wage-earners will be asked to contribute and all who have been approached have given the enterprise their hearty endorsement. The Board of Trade will hold a second meeting on the evening of the 26th instant and give the matter further consideration.

The establishment of such an enterprise would not only be a great benefit to Redwood in a business way but it would, most important of all, furnish employment to the boys and girls of the town who are now obliged to go abroad to find employment or learn trades.

At its meeting Tuesday night the Board of Trade received a communication from the San Mateo Board of Trade asking the co-operation of the local body in the appointment by the Board of Supervisors of a dairy inspector. The board gave the matter its approval and instructed the secretary to notify the San Mateo organization of its willingness to aid in the movement.

The president and secretary were delegated to appear at the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors and urge that body to contribute toward the maintanance of a county exhibit in the rooms of the California Development Board at the Ferry building in San Francisco.

Letters were read from Congressman Hayes, promising his aid in the movement to keep up the mail delivery between Redwood City and Pescadero. Mr. Hayes also reported that an appropriation of $12,000 had been granted by Congress for the improvement of Redwood creek.

Three new members were accepted as follows: Frank Tanning Company. John Raynal and O. M. Carrington.

New Manager for Bank.

J. H. McKie who has been in charge of the Redwood City Commercial bank and the Savings and Trust Company for the past year, has resigned, his important property interests at San Diego demanding his return to that city. Mr. McKie will retain his interest in the banks of whose future success he is confident, and he is equally sanguine of the prospects of this city. Mr. McKie will be succeeded by John P. Weller, a genial and solid citizen of San Mateo for the past 20 years who is known to most Redwood people. Mr. Weller has been assistant postmaster at San Mateo during his residence there. He will take charge of the banks August 1st.

About three years ago they were first used in our family, when we lived in Buffalo, N. Y. Their use in my case brought prompt and positive relief from pain and lameness in the back and other distressing difficulties due to weak kidneys. To say the least, the results were gratifying. Another person in our household who suffered from backache found Doan's Kidney Pills very effective and has used them off and on since then with good results."
